Applicant's election without traverse of Invention I in the reply filed on 16 September 2005 is acknowledged.

Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).

The drawings are objected to because many of the figures are obviously informal and most have informal lettering. Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-3 and 5-10 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over Pan et al. Pan shows an arrangement of flow channel 14, 16 formed in a first (lowest in Figs. 2 and 4) layer, a first control channel 20-22 in a second higher layer adjacent the first layer, and the two layers separated by a deflectable membrane. A second control channel 26 is adjacent the first control channel, is located in a layer adjacent the second layer, and is separated from the first control channel by a second deflectable diaphragm. Under 35 USC 102, the term “microfluidic” is seen as having an indefinite size, and so has been given no patentable weight. Alternatively, under 35 USC 103, it would have been obvious to make the Pan device small enough to be considered “micro” as smallness is a design objective of the overall device by eliminating the need for a separate control valve for each main valve. Regarding claim 3, it would have been obvious to turn the Pan device upside down, which would put the first layer over the second. Regarding claims 6-7, the area of each valve is widened relative to the rest of the channel. Regarding claims 8-10, 5 first control channels and five second control channels independently control 25 valves and therefore flow channels (col. 7, line 51 to col. 8, line 10).

Claims 1-3 and 5-10 are alternatively rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Pan et al. in view of Higdon et al. Higdon shows pilot operated diaphragm microvalves (Fig 3B). It would have been obvious to shrink down the Pan diaphragm valve matrix to save space as shown by Higdon.

Claims 4 and 11-12 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 11-12 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Lisec shows a diaphragm microvalve. Andreev, Park, and Klann show other multiplexor arrangements, where a small number of control valves discreetly control far more valves or switches. Unger is a similar patent to applicant and others.
